

Ben Heidinger Group 17 Individual Status Report 2

Section 1, Previous Week's Goals:

I will continue on my basic outline for my feature and work on the data flow diagram as well as understand how the data from my event feature might require or send data to other aspects of the event planner. I will also continue to work with the repository to translate the data I've learned with the creation of the diagrams.

Section 2, Weekly Progress:

1. What I've done: I assisted in the creation of the Data Flow diagram on both levels and helped others understand some of the coding concepts we were using. I've also began to develop HTML for my part of the application.
2. What worked: Once again Draw.io worked very well for us and we were able to create a detailed data flow diagram and the models for the functions. We also began lots for the actual Flask page and had great communication
3. What I learned: I learned about Databases and relearned Data flow diagrams as well as increasing my proficiency with using repositories.
4. What I had trouble with: I am still having a bit of trouble understanding databases.
5. What I got stuck on: I am stuck on trying to really get the HTML written and understanding some of what my group mates have coded

Section 3, Future Plans:

I will finish my html and start to contribute and commit actual bits of code as I work with my team to better understand Github and how it works between people. I will also continue to learn flask and become proficient enough to delve into my portion of the website and the flask side of it.